Mr. Morgan's Election Bill Resolution in the Senate.

THE NEW FINANCE MEASURE.

Senator Sherman Reports the Bill to Provide Against Contraction.

> The Late Justice Miller's Successor.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 23 .- The resolution offered yesterday in the Senate by Mr. Morgan, directing the Committee on Privileges and Elections to amend the place. He is of Connecticut birth, and after graduation from college went to Elections bill as to show what are the changes and modifications to be made; frequently counsel in cases before the was taken up.
Mr. Edmunds reserved a point of order against the resolution to the effect that the parliamentary mode of amending a bill is by offering an amendment in open

Senate by moving to recommit.

Mr. Morgan admitted that his resolution was an unusual one, but he justified it on the ground that if he were to move to recommit the bill that motion would be attributed to a desire to delay action. He called attention to the fact that there was now a quorum of Senators present, and that there had not been more than fifteen Senators present at the opening since the Senate had begun to meet at 10 o'clock.

begun to meet at 10 o'clock.

The Senator in charge of the bill (Mr. Hoar) had found himself entirely unable to have night accision yeraterday, because there was no quotum. He inferred, therefore, that that very distinguished Senator (admitted to be great in every He (Mr. Morgan) would have made a motion to recommit the bill but for the facting the knew that the motion would be instantly taken hold of and given out as a move for delay, whereas his resolu-tion was offered in absolutely good faith.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Finance, reported the bill to provide angainst the contraction of the currency and for other purposes (the caucas bill), and it was read twice and placed on the

Mr. Call spoke four hours in opposiinto the election bill, and was followed in opposition to the bill by Mr. Mc-Pherson. Mr. Aldrich then gave notice of his intention to move an amendment to the rules providing (during the presto the rules providing (during the present session) for the close of debate on any bill under consideration. After some warm discussion, the resolution was laid on the table and ordered printed, and Mr. McPhenson resumed his argument against the elections bill, and afterwards the Senate adjourned. It was agreed that when the Senate adjourned to-morrow it be to meet on Saturday.

THE YEAR'S RECORD. The legislative history of this year done before the new year, and the Sen-ate will doubtless adopt a similar pro-gramme. This closing day was marked by two important events in the Senate, the presentation of the financial bill by the Committee on Finance, and the closure resolution by Aldrich. Senator Sherman had set himself to work to reconcile the condicting views, and to-day's finencial bill is in a large measure of Re-electric terms.

artibutable to his ingenuity.

The programme of the Republicane is believed to be in this line: At a convenient time the closure rule is to be called up (when a Republican majority is at hand). When the Democratic Senters et al. (1997), the program of the state is with the inators attempt to attack it with the inators attempt to attack it with the in-tention of talking it to death, or until the 4th of March—the presiding officer will rule that debate is not in order. What will follow no one can say, but if the rule carrier, the elections bill will come very near the statute books.

THE NEW FINANCE BILL.

The New Finance Bill.

Senator sherman Reports the Measure to Provide Against Contraction.

Washington, Dec. 23.—The Senate Committee on Finance met this morning and directed Senator Sherman to report to the Senate immediately (which was done) the bill "to provide against the contraction of the currency and for other purpose," commo nly known as the Republican caucus bill. The measure was, however, amended in two important particulars at this morning's meeting. The lirat was the exclusion of section 4 of the bill. This section provides that when the National Bank circulation falls below $180,000,000 the dediciency shall be supplied by the issue of Treasury notes, based on silver ballion purchases, if the silver can be purchased, or, if not, by the direct issue of notes.
